Explanation:

Poems: The web application will allow the users with an account and administrators to post poems on the platform. Unless the poem is being posted by an admin (Transpoesis poets), otherwise, it will need an approval from an admin. In the meantime, it will not be visible publically. The user will have the ability to save up to 5 poem drafts (to minimize the cost of database/storage) on his account. There will be liking and commenting options.

Updates: the updates will be in three categories (Workshops, events, competitions), and there will be an index page which shows all updates. However, the user will have an opportunity to filter and see only posts from a certain category.

Competition application page – (Self –explanatory feature)

Blogging: This is a feature for Transpoesis writers for them to share the knowledge about poetry. (N.B: No poems on this page).

About us page: this page will show the reader the mission, vision and objectives of Transpoesis.

Contact us page: this page will show the reader the contacts and location of Transpoesis. In addition, it will allow the reader to leave a message on to Transpoesis by filling the contact us form.

Team page: This page will introduce the reader to any member of Transpoesis family (Name, title and Short biography). In addition, it will also provide a clue of who is the partner of Transpoesis (company name and what it does).

Donate page: This feature is will allow an individual who wants to give a financial donation Transpoesis to do so immediately. – (but the team has found this feature to be risky when is coming to hacking. What is good for Transpoesis is to allow the user to provide his info so that Transpoesis can contact him/her or the user can directly to the site which is specialized to that, but this will be cost some little money.)

Sessions (Sign up/Sign in Logout): This feature will allow the poets to create and manage their accounts. The poets will have the opportunity to posts their poems on the platform.

Clarification:

- The team thought of allowing the poets with an account to save poems drafts. We were wondering if we can allow the administrators (Transpoesis) to see what is going in their private account.
- Making donation is so risky when it comes to hacking since you share the bank info. We have provided options above, what do you think?
- Do you want to advertise other companies' products?
- How do you want to receive competition application info? (is there any statistical information statistics you need to receive?)
